Lynda Cipolla

Lynda came to live in the Almaguin Highlands in 1989 where she quickly settled into a peaceful way of life. Gardening has been a passion since she was a child, and that interest led her to The Sprucedale and District Horticultural Society. There, Lynda met Edie Szabo, an artist, and while Lynda taught her about gardening, Edie taught her about oil painting.

Lynda is essentially, a self-taught artist, and a Realist. Her work reflects the inspirational landscapes of the Almaguin Highlands and Algonquin Park. She works mainly in Oil, but also paints with Acrylics. Landscapes are her favourite subjects, but she also does still lifes and flower portraits.

Lynda's first art show was in 2000 at the Creative Changes Art Show and Sale in Kearney, Ontario, where she was awarded Best in Show. She continues to exhibit in Kearney annually, and has received many awards, over the years. She is currently a member of The Burk's Falls Arts and Crafts Club, and exhibits in their Gallery.
