ANNE GALLANT

ABOUT THE ARTIST

Anne is of Acadian descent and grew up on a farm in Abram's Village. She had a wondrous and adventurous childhood. Nature was always a part of her life and she feels at peace when she is sitting in the middle of the woods or on an isolated beach.

In 1979, she studied Arts History at Mount Allison University, in New Brunswick then went on to study Graphic Design at George Brown College in Toronto. After her studies, she wanted adventure so she traveled and worked all across Canada. She was awed by its grandeur and spectacular sceneries. Then, she decided she wanted to work in the Third World and ended up in Haiti for a few years. This, she feels is a strong influence in how she paints today. She love the wonderful bright colours the Haitians had in their daily lives and in their art. She fell in love with it all and it shows in her work. She paints to bring out the rich colours that she sees deep inside nature, the warmth and details of it all.

If you happen to visit PEI sometime visit her gallery in the town of Kensington, just across from the old train station.
