Tracy Ann Hermann

About the Artist

Tracy Ann combines her love of drawing and painting with texture, pattern and color to create beautiful digital collages. Her work is an inspired metamorphosis of warmth, strength and sensitivity.

After studies in fine art and illustration, with various awards and a scholarship to study art and design in her home state of California, Tracy pursued a career in greeting cards before journeying on to the Pacific Northwest where she creates gifts and collectibles for American national parks. Artistic versatility allows Tracy to work in a variety of modes. Among Tracy's other creative interests are holistic animal care and healing.

'I am inspired by creative aspects of soul, inner guidance, dreams and the awesome beauty of the natural world. Even below our conscious awareness, I feel we are guided by spiritual aspects of nature. More than ever, we are losing abundant animal life. My hope is we use our gifts and knowledge to turn this around. Many of my images feature young animals, perhaps promise of continued presence in our world. In some of my pieces you may find an image of an owl or bumblebee, symbols of wisdom and insight and of bringing fruitful labors into existence. Of course, some of my pieces are just utterly fun and whimsical.'
