Catherine's artwork is the product of a creative nature that began at an early age in a learning environment that nurtured the arts. "Music and art have always been an important part of my life. My years as a working musician and graphic designer have shown me how one influences the other."

Living in the Midwest of the United States, she is inspired by nature and the ever-changing colors and textures of the four seasons. "I combine organic materials, my own digital images, hand painted backgrounds and faux finishes to create unique decorative art pieces."
