Isa Zapata Biography

Imaginative. Whimsical. Inspiring. Welcome to the wonderful world of Isa Zapata. Her vivid characters spark the imagination and inspire children and adults of all ages. Her art is filled with characters, which are drawn from the people, personalities, and everyday life situations she encounters. The goal of Isa's artwork is "to create the world we desire, we must become proactive, we must create that world with our actions, words and reactions".

As a resident of Miami, she cultivated her talent at the Miami Children's Museum as part of the museum's Artist in Residence Program. Her artwork has been auctioned in gala and fundraising events such as: St. Jude's Children's Hospital Tomorrow Nite Gala, Fundacion Manos del Sur, Misioneros del Camino, Karitas, Young Super Bowl League and other charitable events throughout the community and the U.S.

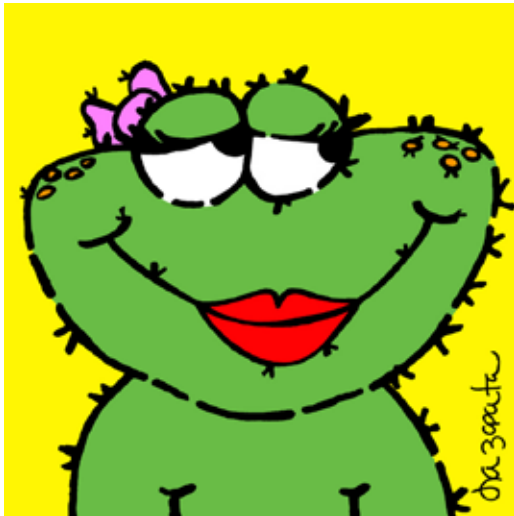

Making fine art affordable to everyone is one of Isa's goals. This is why she has created various lines of clothing including: "Mommy, Daddy and Me" T-shirts to outfit the entire family; along with unique hand painted furniture, open edition lithographs and custom designed murals which are accessible to all art lovers. In the Fall of 2008, Isa was approached by a Canadian publishing company to illustrate the children's book entitled: "Today I Am Happy". With the overwhelming success of the book, she has been asked to participate in the illustration of a new book. Her first 43 images have been licensed for a multinational company and her art will soon be available as decorative wallpaper, door huggers and trendy t-shirts. "

My characters are encompassed in a fantasy world, which are drawn from the personalities, people and everyday life situations I encounter. My main goal is to provide positive and awe-inspiring artwork for the child in all of us."
